Smarter... not harder

With blueKiwi, you can eliminate the complexity of today's work environment by providing a single, easily accessible place for users to collaborate, organize, and exchange information.

In this uniquely collaborative work environment, membership is not dictated by job description, but by experience and expertise. By creating a place where users can contribute and share, blueKiwi captures the powerful collective knowledge of an entire organization. This helps employees get the answers they need to time-sensitive questions and equips them to make better decisions.

And blueKiwi's new social recommendation engine helps users build new connections, by bringing the expertise of the extended network directly to them — by recommending additional people, topics, and content that may help further develop their work.

Put "social" to work for you

Enterprise social networks are all about transparency and collaboration, something the business world is now recognizing as essential to its success. With blueKiwi, your employees can improve communication and information sharing among teams, thereby increasing their ability to successfully reach business goals.

A blueKiwi enterprise social network can connect everyone at your organization anywhere - using tools familiar to them. With mobile devices to connect on the go and business apps like Microsoft Outlook and Office to ease new app integration, going social is simple. And with blueKiwi, you have a single space to collaborate and exchange ideas on a subject – so no one is left behind.

Your enterprise social network is not just about you communicating with the people you know, it's a new way of working where you can discover, recognize and capitalize on new talent and opportunities.

ZEN Features

Focus on productivity. Intelligently manage the information around you. blueKiwi's intuitive interface makes it easy to collaborate and stay informed.

Unmatched innovation. With internal and external networks, collaborative documents, analytics, ideation, and task management, blueKiwi leads the industry in innovation.

Team building. Dynamic user profiles help you find the right skill set and get to know others in your organization. Bring everyone together using features that can tackle even the most difficult challenges.

Create opportunity. Bring attention to what's important; quickly find what you need, or reach out for expert advice. blueKiwi can also suggest new content, introduce you to other users, and propose new communities to join.

Single footprint software. blueKiwi creates communities among employees, partners, and customers — all in a single solution.

Work anywhere. Use our dedicated mobile applications or mobile browser to keep in touch.

Collaborate everywhere. Our Microsoft Outlook and Office Connectors simplify collaboration with popular desktop applications and existing IT systems.

Zero maintenance deployments. Our Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) platform makes it easy and hassle-free to deploy and use blueKiwi.
