Maximum performance to build your journey to success

Atos

With over 25 years experience of delivering technology to major sporting events such as the Olympics and Commonwealth Games, Atos is proud to be a provider for the Glasgow 2018 European Championships. We are trusted to deliver the Timing, Scoring and Results service for Cycling, Golf, Gymnastics and Triathlon, including the Digital Media and Central Results service across all sports for one of the largest ever multi-sport events in Scotland.

Scotland hosts the first ever multi-sport European Championships

Some of today's most popular international sports, including golf, hockey, rugby and tennis, are rooted in Scotland and the country's impact on sport worldwide is undisputed. Reflecting Scotland's continuing role in global sport, Glasgow is the host to the biggest sporting event in Scotland since the Commonwealth Games came to Glasgow 2014.

The Glasgow 2018 European Championships

The European Championships, 2 - 12 August 2018, is a new multi-sport event which, every four years, will bring together the existing European Championships of some of the continent's leading sports. For the inaugural European Championships, Glasgow 2018 is host to 3,000 athletes competing across six events: Aquatics, Cycling, Golf, Gymnastics, Rowing and Triathlon, while a further 1,500 athletes compete in Berlin as part of the European Athletics Championships.

Continuing digital transformation

Part of Atos' responsibility is to process and distribute live results for all seven sports across Glasgow and Berlin, and to deliver live schedule and results pages to give sports fans and attendees up-to-date Championships information. Attendances of up to 250,000 are expected at venues across Glasgow and Scotland, with a potential TV audience of up to 1.03 billion.

With the spotlight on Scotland, Atos is drawing on its vast experience as worldwide IT partner and lead integrator of the Olympic Games since 2001, having delivered vital IT solutions for every Olympic Games since 1992 and been a crucial partner in the digital transformation of the Olympic Games for PyeongChang 2018 as applications such as the accreditation system were hosted in Atos Canopy Hybrid Cloud. That digital transformation continues as every event brings new innovations which, in future, look set to encompass augmented reality for connected fans inside the stadia to alter and replay their views of the action. For Glasgow 2018 - this will be the first multi-sports event in Scotland to have their Central Results Service hosted on a hybrid cloud.

Beyond the Olympic Games, Atos supports elite sports all over the world. In Scotland, Atos was an Official Supporter of the Glasgow 2014 Commonwealth Games, delivering the Games Management Systems and Games Information Systems that proved vital in helping Scotland to deliver a world-class event. And with the bar raised so high, Glasgow 2018 looks set to achieve the same gold standard.

A must-watch event

Behind the scenes, and increasingly centre stage, technology is transforming how major sporting events are delivered. And with athletes, fans and organisers better connected than ever before, expectations are high. Broadcasters want detailed results in real time; fans want to get instant scores and highlights of the latest action wherever they are, and from any device.

As well as being the Official Timing, Scoring and Results Provider and Proud Supporter of the Glasgow 2018 European Championships, Atos is creating a robust digital presence for the event as Digital Media and Central Results Services Provider. With a mission to deliver a must-attend, must-watch experience, and using Atos' strong track record in digital services for large-scale sports events, the team is working in partnership with Edinburgh-based agency Signal to design and develop the Glasgow 2018 and European Championships websites. There's also an app available to fans from summer 2018 that will bring them all the medal tables, news and live schedules and results.
