A deeprooted partnership with Atos Australia

Trusted partner for your Digital Journey

Atos

For well over a decade, Atos has been a strategic partner of the Australian Defence Force. As a Key Divisional Supplier (KDS) our experience, capability and domain expertise assists Defence in achieving critical outcomes. From the design, implementation, integration and sustainment of key ICT applications and projects, Atos understands the need for flexibility and innovation in a rapidly changing Defence environment.

The challenge

Bringing innovation

As the Defence landscape rapidly evolves and new threat types emerge, Atos must continue to support Defence across critical ICT systems while at the same time, bring innovation to Australia with the introduction of proven, world-class military solutions. Atos supports Australian Government initiatives through the growth and development of sovereign capabilities for the benefit of Defence and the Australian economy overall. Atos leading-edge solutions include Mission Critical High-Tech Systems, Electronic Warfare and Satellite technologies, High Performance and Advanced Computing, Cybersecurity, Critical Communications, Analytics, AI and innovative Cloud solutions.

The solution

Providing critical information to decision makers

Atos Australia continues to deliver successful outcomes to Defence's enterprise-wide CIO Group, the Royal Australian Navy and Australian Army as well as providing solutions to other Navies across the region. Providing timely and concise information to decision-makers is a crucial requirement for Defence organisations to address and counter new threats and changing operational requirements. Atos Australia works with our Global Strategic Alliance Partners, including Google Cloud, Dell EMC, VMware, Siemens, SAP, Microsoft, Cisco, Oracle and Amazon Web Services.

The benefits

Adaptability and innovation

Due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the Australian Department of Defence faced immediate challenges in providing special training for key personnel to maintain the ongoing capability of major Defence assets. By adapting to Defence specific requirements, Atos was able to design and rapidly deploy an innovative cloud-based training solution to enable this critical training to be undertaken remotely from any location that Defence requires. Operating in a dynamic and progressive landscape, Atos continues to deliver key outcomes which are integral to the strategic imperatives of the Australian Government and the protection of Australia's national interests.

Australian Defence Force

The Australian Defence Force defends Australia, contributes to regional security, supports global interests, shapes the strategic environment and protects national interests. The Australian Defence Force consists of the Royal Australian Navy, Australian Army, Royal Australian Air Force and several "tri-service" units.
