

Atos appoints Udo Littke as new Head of Central Europe

Munich, October 28, 2020 - With immediate effect, Udo Littke takes over the role as Head of the Central Europe region for Atos, a global leader in digital transformation. He is responsible for the business activities in Germany, Austria, Switzerland as well as the Eastern and Southern Europe regions (Bulgaria, Croatia, Czech Republic, Greece, Hungary, Romania, Serbia, Slovakia) with about 14,500 employees. Udo Littke succeeds Ursula Morgenstern, who has left the company. In his new function he is a member of the General Management Committee of Atos.

Udo Littke has been a member of the management board of Atos in Germany since October 2011. In addition to this role as Managing Director of the German organization and his function as Labour Director, he has also been in charge of the Public Services and Defense industry for Atos in Central Europe since early 2020. His career began in 1989 at Siemens. After initial positions in the field of controlling, he took on leading positions in the Siemens Group, including in the areas of service and sales. With the acquisition of Siemens IT Solutions & Services (SIS) in 2011, Udo Littke moved to Atos. During the integration of SIS into the Atos Group and in customer projects, he demonstrated special management skills and successes as well as the consistent further development of employees in complex transformation projects.
