

Atos is helping a large US insurer build agile capability

Delivering agile coaching and transformation initiatives

Atos

At a glance

World's largest mutual life Insurance company embarked on a comprehensive value stream and agile transformation journey several years ago and have not achieved their desired outcomes. They wanted to adopt a Project to Product mindset to accelerate the transformation.

Outcomes

- Atos identified the need for outside coaching assistance and tools to jumpstart their efforts. Auto countrywide rollout, Property product rollout, all channels enablement, and Renewals

Embarking on the path to transformation

The world's largest mutual life Insurance company embarked on a comprehensive value stream and agile transformation journey several years ago and are still waiting to achieve their desired outcomes. They wanted to adopt a Project to Product mindset to accelerate the transformation which Atos is helping them to implement and get them back on track.

Atos is working collaboratively with them to provide coaching to identify strengths and weaknesses in the current lean agile approach within the "Client Prospecting" value stream and therefore build a better lean agile training program.

Transformation will be across the Client Prospecting value chain enabling the organization to get their program back on track and kickstart further enterprise value streams and agile transformation initiatives.

Collaboration is key

Atos is working collaboratively with them to:

- Provide coaching to identify strengths and weaknesses in the current lean agile approach in the "Client Prospecting" value stream
- Build a better lean agile training program
- Build a gap and mitigation plan
- Leverage Tasktop and Agility Health Radar tools to measure outcomes
- Help them launch their next value stream

Accelerating business benefits

- Transformation will be across the Client Prospecting value chain
- It is helping the organization to get their program back on track
- Atos has been asked to participate in upcoming enterprise value streams and agile transformation initiatives
