

Atos Named as Leader in the ISG Provider Lens™ 2024 for Manufacturing Supply Chain and Procurement Services in Europe

Bezons, France – July 29, 2025 – Atos, a global AI-powered technology partner shaping secure, end-to-end digital journeys, has been named as Leader in Manufacturing supply chain and Procurement services in Europe by Information Services Group (ISG), the leading global research and advisory firm.

Manufacturing Supply Chain and Procurement Services

The report assesses service providers that deliver solutions to manage functions such as procurement, warehousing, inventory, fulfilment, transportation and logistics to drive resiliency and manage costs.

The report highlights Atos' comprehensive manufacturing and supply chain services across Europe, focusing on sustainability and innovation. It offers advanced manufacturing solutions, intelligent supply chain management and commitment to environmental protection.

Harish B, Manager and Principal Analyst, ISG mentions "Evident Atos' strengths in the European manufacturing industry stem from its innovative approaches to supply chain management, commitment to sustainability and integration of advanced technologies."

The assessment admired Atos strengths in Innovative manufacturing solutions monitoring it at the forefront of manufacturing as a service (MaaS), which enhances supply chain execution and control. This model allows for seamless integration of various manufacturing processes, improving efficiency and flexibility across the supply chain. The company collaborates closely with R&D teams to ensure that products are designed not only for performance but also for sustainability, in alignment with modern environmental standards.

ISG also highlighted that Atos' Intelligent supply chain management solutions provide end-to-end transparency and resilience. Its Intelligent Supply Chain (ISC) framework integrates data-driven insights to optimize operations, enabling manufacturers to make informed decisions in real time. This approach not only enhances operational efficiency but also improves risk management across the supply chain.

ISG praised Atos' Digital product passport solution which utilizes blockchain technology to enhance transparency and traceability throughout the product lifecycle. It is particularly beneficial where tracking sustainability metrics is crucial.
